

Sales and Marketing Manager B2B

Sales and Marketing Manager at Evira

Do you want to help us tackle one of the greatest health challenges of the century? Do you want to develop products that truly make a difference? Then this opportunity is for you!

Evira is a platform and a service for childhood obesity treatment. We currently have more than 400 families in active treatment with Evira and have helped hundreds of children to better health and a better life. Check us out at www.evira.se!

We have a great product with proven clinical results but we are still in the early stages of our commercial journey. We are looking for a sales and marketing manager that will help us contact potential customers and create and test marketing strategies and materials. You will take on an integral part in developing our product offering and marketing strategy.

Your role

Your main assignment will involve talking to customers and potential buyers, but you will also be responsible for writing marketing material and maintaining the content on our webpage.

You will also be expected to share the insights you gain into our customers' and users' needs with the rest of the team and take part in maintaining the vision of Evira.

Who you are

- You share our passion for building great solutions that truly make a difference
- You have experience from sales and marketing, preferably from a medical field
- You continuously share your knowledge and are not afraid to ask for help when necessary
- You are confident speaking both Swedish and English
- You are able to build trusting relationships with people from different cultures without extensive meeting time

Join us on our journey so we may help more children to a better future. Interviews are ongoing, so don't hesitate to send us your application to work@evira.se. We look forward to hearing from you!

